Director, Introduction to Clinical Medicine

The University of South Carolina School of Medicine is seeking a highly qualified physician, primary care preferred, to serve as director for its four-semester Introduction to Clinical Medicine course (ICM). This is a clinical track faculty position at the level of Assistant or Associate Professor. Successful candidates will be responsible for the development, implementation, and oversight of the ICM curriculum in the first and second year of medical school. Medical education commitment shall be approximately 60% time and effort in the Office of Curricular Affairs and Media Services delivering the curriculum to first and second year medical students. Candidates will be expected to hold a primary appointment in the appropriate clinical department with approximately 40% time and effort in clinical activities.

Minimum Qualifications: M.D./D.O., board certified in respective clinical specialty, licensed or eligible for licensure in the State of South Carolina. Established record of teaching skills and clinical experience, ability to teach effectively and work collaboratively with other clinician educators and basic medical scientists; and demonstrated potential for growth in teaching, creative activity and service are required. Previous experience in the planning or implementation of a course in medical education and experience with standardized patients is preferred.

Faculty who are interested in applying for this position should submit a letter of interest and a C.V. electronically to Lynn.Heard@uscmed.sc.edu by February 28, 2013. Questions should be directed to Joshua T. Thornhill IV, M.D., Associate Dean for Medical Education and Academic Affairs at 216-3600 or Joshua.Thornhill@uscmed.sc.edu.
